Self-Reflection - "How Am I Contributing to Society?"

- * Individual commitment to a group effort - that is what makes a team work, a company work, a society work, a civilization work. Vince Lombardi
- * The creation of a more peaceful and happier society has to begin from the level of the individual, and from there it can expand to one's family, to one's neighborhood, to one's community and so on. Dalai Lama
- * Don't spend your precious time asking "Why isn't the world a better place?" It will only be time wasted. The question to ask is "How can I make it better?" To that there is an answer. Leo Buscaglia
- * The wise person doesn't ask, "What have I achieved?" but rather, "What have I contributed?" Marianne Williamson
- * We ourselves feel that what we are doing is just a drop in the ocean. But the ocean would be less because of that missing drop. Mother Teresa
- * Both optimists and pessimists contribute to society. The optimist invents the aeroplane, the pessimist the parachute. George Bernard Shaw
- * You are not here merely to make a living. You are here in order to enable the world to live more amply, with greater vision, with a finer spirit of hope and achievement. You are here to enrich the world, and you impoverish yourself if you forget the errand. Woodrow Wilson
- * There is no greater calling than to serve your fellow men. There is no greater contribution than to help the weak. There is no greater satisfaction than to have done it well. Walter Reuther
- * You are good. But it is not enough just to be good. You must be good for something. You must contribute good to the world. The world must be a better place for your presence. And the good that is in you must be spread to others. Gordon B. Hinckley
- * Money is no good unless it contributes something to the community, unless it builds a bridge to a better life. Any man can make money, but it takes a special kind of man to use it responsibly. A. G. Gaston
- * Go out into the world and do good until there is too much good in the world. Larry H. Miller
- * Be involved; be informed. Make meaningful contributions to society through service and involvement. M. Russell Ballard
- * Some of the most vocal critics of the way things are being done are people who have done nothing themselves, and whose only contributions to society are their complaints and moral exhibitionism. Thomas Sowell
- * Values are like fingerprints. Nobody's are the same, but you leave 'em all over everything you do.

Funny Vacation Stories from Real Simple Magazine  June 26, 2015

- ⇒ Two years ago, my husband and I booked a city bus tour in Athens, Greece. We were told to wait in the hotel lobby at 7 a.m. and hop onto the bus when it arrived, which we did. First red flag? Our guide spoke only Portuguese. Second red flag? The bus stopped at a port, and everyone was herded onto a boat. It turns out that we, two 69-year-olds, had boarded a 12-hour party-boat tour of the Aegean Islands with a Brazilian tour group! We had no IDs and very little money, so we decided to stay put (instead of getting off at one of the islands stops), drink a few beers, and get some sun. Lesson learned: Speak up at the first red flag.
- ⇒ Upon arriving at a beach-house rental, I noticed that it was filthy and proceeded to scrub the toilets, floors, bathtubs, and kitchen cabinets. I was so upset that the house was not ready for guests! Later, my family and I discovered that we were supposed to be staying at the house next door. (The two rentals must have shared the same entry key code.) I had "white gloved" the wrong place.
- ⇒ I had to buy a whole new wardrobe for my toddler after I opened her suitcase to find that she had replaced all her clothing with toys. Her explanation: "I just wanted to play." Once we returned home, I saw the suitcase's original contents sitting in a big pile on her bedroom floor.
- ⇒ I got trapped in an elevator alone while on a family cruise, and Spider-Man (or, rather, the maître d' dressed up for "superhero night") came to my rescue, ripping open the doors and making a huge scene. The crowd applauded as he helped me escape.
- ⇒ While snorkeling for the very first time, I had finally gained control of my breathing and started to relax when I saw this black, snakelike thing swimming close to my chest. I began screaming and quickly swam back to the boat. It was a big relief when the "snake" turned out to be the belt strap from my life jacket.
- ⇒ During a go-kart ride at Disney World in the 70s, my mother and I drove separate cars while my little brother shared a car with my dad. I completed the ride first and walked over to a bridge overlooking the finish line just in time to see my brother and dad rear-end my mother's car. Her Carol Brady-style wig popped off her head and into her lap—right in front of the rows of families waiting to enter the ride. I was mortified, but my mother was laughing so hard she could barely get out of the vehicle.
- ⇒ When I informed my then four-year-old son that our hotel in Texas had a pool, he could not have been more excited. After we got off the plane, my in-laws greeted us near a fancy fountain on the airport's main floor. I was chatting with them, and the next thing I knew, my son had removed half his clothes and was about to jump into the fountain. He thought it was the hotel pool!
- ⇒ My husband and I crashed a class of '84 high school reunion. People thought they remembered us and said they were happy to see us together after all these years.
